

U. S. WARNED NOT TO SEND SUPPLIES ABROAD

STATE'S DEATH TOLL FOR WEEK CLIMBS TO 101

Third Victim Is Added To List In Tragedy At Lake Milton

WOUNDS FATAL TO
FRANK SHUSTER, 19

Two Denison University
Students Die In Indiana Collision

Frank Shuster, 19, died in a Youngstown hospital late yesterday
—the third victim of a slaying tragedy at Lake Milton as Ohio's violent deaths for the seven-day period beginning last Saturday stood today at the appalling total of 101, an average of more than 14 a day.

At least 70 of the fatalities were attributed to motor vehicle traffic.
Others died in fires, plane and train crashes, hunting accidents,
an explosion, drownings, suicides
and slayings.

The count began last Saturday
and by the end of the three-day Christmas holiday period had mounted to 88. Fifteen more were killed yesterday.

Frank Shuster's death yesterday followed those of his sister, Virginia, 17, and his father, Frank Shuster, 41.

According to Sheriff Ralph Elser of Mahoning county, the father hacked his children with an axe before taking his own life with a gun. Mrs. Shuster, returning from a visit, discovered the bodies at their Lake Milton home Thursday night.

Two Denison university students, William Robert Murphy, 20, of Newark, and Orville H. Jones, 20, of Granville, died in an automobile-truck collision 13 miles west of South Bend, Ind.

Other fatalities included:
Greenville—George W. Michael,
68-year-old farmer, who, Coroner
L. N. Brumbaugh of Darke county said, killed himself with a shotgun.
Lima—Arthur Faeth, 15, killed by a schoolmate's automobile as he hitch-hiked home from a basketball game.

Warren—John Werbellowicz, 51, struck by an automobile.
Geneva—Pearl W. Weldy, a truck operator, found dead at the wheel of his automobile at his home.

Dayton—Mrs. Elizabeth Darnell, 72, of Manchester, who died of injuries received in an automobile accident Tuesday.

Cincinnati—Earl Capman, 25, injured in a Christmas day automobile collision.

Findlay—Harold Mitchell, 23, apparently killed by a train as he walked along some railroad tracks.

Slain Woman's Husband
Nearly Overcome by Grief

ROCHESTER, Pa., Dec. 28.— Christopher Wall, 64, husband of the victim of East Liverpool, O.,
"potato barrel" murder two months ago, was reported in a critical condition in the Rochester hospital today.

Neighbors found him in bed at his Smith's Ferry apartment yesterday with a small gas stove burning and the windows closed.

10 Flight Scholarships To Be Given At End of Ground Course

Fifty-four competitive students and approximately 18 non-competitors are participating in the city's non-college civilian aeronautics course.

James Fitzpatrick, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, the sponsors, said that 10 flight scholarships will be offered at the conclusion of the ground course. The ground course, which is being given at Salem High school six nights a week, is expected to end the last part of January.

Winston Leach of Alliance, who is rated by the Civilian Aeronautics administration, is the ground instructor.

Actual flight training will start sometime in February after the scholarships have been awarded.
The students are separated into two different classes for the ground course. One class meets Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. The other class meets on alternate nights.

Fitzpatrick said the public may sit in on any of the classes which are held from 7 to 9 p. m.

WINNERS LISTED IN YULE LIGHTING

L. P. Koenreich and L. C.
Messersmith First In
Two Divisions

Winners in the Junior Chamber of Commerce's Christmas lighting and decorating contest were announced today, following judging of the various displays Thursday and Friday nights.

A lighting expert, an architect and an electrician from another city acted as judges.

L. P. Koenreich of 1446 E. Pershing st. was named winner in the complete house lighting contest, receiving first prize of $30. First prize of $15 in the doorway lighting contest went to L. C. Messersmith of 884 Summit st.

Second prize of $20 in the house lighting event was awarded Mrs. J.
P. Hayden, 631 N. Ellsworth ave., while third prize of $10 went to T.
Emerson Smith, 931 Home Circle.

Raymond Luxell of 1350 Ridgewood drive was declared winner of second prize of $10 in the doorway lighting contest. Third prize of $5
in the doorway event was given W.
F. Bolen, 967 Home Circle.

Approximately 40 entries were submitted for the contest.

BRITISH CASH IN U. S. RUNNING LOW

Funds Will Be Exhausted
In the Early Autumn
Of Next Year

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—A preliminary audit of British resources in the United States has revealed, authoritative sources disclosed today, that Great Britain will run out of cash to pay for purchases of arms and munitions here "in the early autumn" of next year.

The preliminary examination of Britain's financial condition, made by U. S. treasury experts, established that the end of cash payments was approaching, it was stated. A more detailed study of the British treasury's "balance sheet"
now is under way.

That detailed analysis, informed sources said, was being made to determine as precisely as possible British capacity to pay for purchases here, and the probable calendar date on which British cash would be exhausted.

The treasury's study also will provide answers to the questions
President Roosevelt and Secretary Morgenthau expect to be asked when congress considers the problem of aid to Britain.

The British government now is paying for war supplies with gold shipped from London. Payments for British goods, and receipts from the sale here of British owned dollar securities.

Children's Home Fund To Be Pared

LISBON, Dec. 28.—Stark county commissioners met here Friday afternoon with Columbiana county commissioners to discuss maintenance of the Fairmount Children's home at Alliance, which is supported jointly by the two counties.

The Stark commissioners were notified Columbiana county's appropriation, which amounted to approximately $35,000 the past year, would be curtailed. The matter was discussed by both boards, with the local commissioners tentatively setting up an appropriation of $26,000 for the home next year.

The commissioners indicated the county budget will be adopted following a meeting next Monday with the elective officials, whose approval will be sought for the tentative budget which has been prepared by the commissioners.

Decision Affirmed

PORTSMOUTH, Dec. 28.—A common pleas court decision holding that a city could contract with the Federal Housing Authority to supply public services free to a subdivision under construction was affirmed by the fourth district apellate court.

John Rottinghaus had contended in a taxpayer's suit that such a contract for the Wayne Hills subdivision was unconstitutional and granted special privileges because the subdivision was free of taxation.

'HAPPY NEW YEAR' SAYS COLUMBIANA WITH $11,000 GIFT

All Consumers' Electric Bills Are Paid For Last Quarter

COLUMBIANA, Dec. 28.—Members of the board of public affairs are saying "Happy New Year" to residents of the village by marking "Paid" all consumers electric bills
for the last quarter ending Jan. 1.
The belated Christmas gift to the users of municipal current represents a $11,000 "loss" to the village treasury, but members of the board, Ray Herold, Ray C. Miller and Clyde Hoover, believe their action to be a step in the right direction in keeping with present day trends.

The board's resolution authorizing the gift read: That, inasmuch as the electrical distributing system is in good financial condition, we,
the members of the board believe it would be a mistake to reduce rates at this time but at the same time realize the some recognition is due the citizens of Columbiana.

"Therefore, we hereby pass the necessary motion to remit payments for the January billing to all electric consumers of the village."
Similar action was taken a year ago.

LONDON IS LASHED BY NAZI BOMBERS

Britain's Own RAF, Meanwhile, Blasts at "Invasion Ports"

LONDON, Dec. 28.—After one of the heaviest night bombing attacks of the war on London, Britain's own bombing planes were reported today to be jabbing at Adolf Hitler's invasion ports along 1,000 miles of Nazi-occupied coast from the Bay of Biscay to the Fjords of Norway.

Navy dive bombers joined the RAF in raids on shipping, docks and air and sea bases while available units of the fleet kept a weather eye on Britain's other big worry—her beleaguered transoceanic supply lines.

"The shipping situation worries us as much as the threat of invasion," one source asserted. "We are running as much chance of being choked by the blockade before United States aid reaches its peak as we are of being knocked out by an invasion."

"You can take it we're not going to be diverted from the job of countering these two real dangers flat-out by any sidishow such as the reported German troop movements in the Balkans—whether that's a real move to strengthen the German position there, or merely a red herring."

NAZIS' GREEK PLANS DEPEND UPON BRITISH

Will Move Only If Britain Tries Central European Drive

ITALIAN LOSSES ARE NO BLOW TO HITLER

Mussolini Now Quiet about Taking Big Slice of France

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 28.—
With the advance guard of a new Nazi expedition of 300,000 troops already rolling westward across Hungary, authoritative sources reported today that Germany plans to move against Greece by way of Bulgaria only if Britain tries to use Greece as the starting point for an invasion of central Europe.

Germany, these sources said, will not make any move to aid the Italian forces now fighting the Greeks in Albania if the British refrain from landing troops in Greece.

Await Italian Fate

Germany was understood by these sources to have let it be known in the Balkans that in the event of Italian collapse as the result of a Greek victory, the Nazis would hasten to make a definite peace with France.

It was stated authoritatively that Adolf Hitler had agreed to let Premier Mussolini attack Greece last October only because he wished to divert Italy's attention from beaten France.

Germany was said to have been considerably embarrassed by Italian claim for slices of French territory when Hitler reportedly wished to give Marshal Philippe Petain, French chief of state, easy terms so as to win the Vichy government's loyalty.

The debacle in Albania, far from disquieting Germany, has made Italy keep quiet about demands in France, these sources said.

Ready for Full Peace

They asserted that Hitler was prepared to make a full peace settlement with France, with only the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine changing hands, if Italy collapses.

Petain was understood to have told the Nazis that in case the German terms were "unreasonable" he would cut North Africa loose, with General Maxime Weygand taking a large colonial army into the ranks of general Charles de Gaulle's "Free French" forces, moving against Italian Libya from Tunisia in coordination with the current British action from Egypt.

Mass movements of German troops
and war materials to Rumania, which, it is estimated by observers,
will give the Nazis nearly half a million men there by the end of January, were designed chiefly as an insurance measure, it was reported here.

Salem Youth To Be U. S. Flying Cadet

Alden Edgar West of 511 E.
Second st. was among 122 Ohioans selected today for Flying Cadet scholarships in the Army Air Corps, according to an announcement made by Fifth Corps area
headquarters in Columbus.

He is scheduled to report Jan. 2
to Parks Air college, East St. Louis, Ill.

The Flying Cadets received $75 a month, plus living expenses while in training. Upon graduation they will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve, with active duty salaries of $205 a month, plus living quarters.

Candidates are now being sought for the next Ohio quota of 240.

Waterford Man Hurt As Car Hits Culvert

Earl McCune, aged about 56, of New Waterford, was injured when his automobile struck a culvert on Route 7, just south of the junction of Route 14, at 11:30 a. m. today.

McCune was believed to have suffered a heart attack while driving and lost control of his car. The extent of his injuries is not known.
He was taken to a physician's office.

German, Russian Soldiers Marching

Once again world attention shifts to the Balkans as Germany pours 300,000 fresh troops into Rumania and Russia concentrates its forces along the Rumanian border. The troop movement followed the reaching of a stalemate in the Russian-German-Italian-Rumanian conference called to decide which nation or group should control the all-important mouths of the Danube, Germany's supply line to the east. The German military activity coincided with the shift of Baron Manfred von Killinger, Nazi minister to Slovakia, to the same post at Bucharest. He is expected to rule Rumania as Hitler's virtual district ruler. At the same time, King Boris of Bulgaria ousted 27 high ranking Bulgarian army officers who wanted Bulgaria to enter the war on the side of the Axis. Some sources declared that unless King Boris changes his mind, the Nazis will have to attack Bulgaria in order to get at Turkey and Greece, or first obtain the monarch's abdication. The map shows (1) German and Russian troop movement and (2) a possible Nazi attack on eastern Greece, thus easing the pressure on Italian forces retreating in Albania (3).

CUBA AND MEXICO RAVAGED BY STORM

20 Killed, Hundreds Hurt; Heavy Property Damage Reported

(By Associated Press)

A tropical wind storm that ravaged parts of Cuba and Mexico and spread fanlike up the Florida and California coasts reaped a death toll of 20 dead, left hundreds injured and caused heavy property damage yesterday.

The west Cuban town of Becujal, where 10 persons were killed and 150 injured by freakish gale winds, was most seriously hit.

Vera Cruz state, Mexico, reported nine dead and many injured by 60-mile winds that disrupted communications and rail service.

Torrential rains accompanied the storm into Florida, where Robert L.
Knight, 28, was electrocuted by a fallen power line. The rains ceased today when the heaviest fog the weather bureau has ever recorded in the state set in.

Off the California coast, the crew of 22 of the lumber schooner Stan-wood were taken from the foundering vessel by a coast guard cutter which rescued 30-foot waves to make the rescue.

FORMATION

The football sensation of the year was the T formation, which is only a pepped-up version of the formation most teams were using in the post-war era before the pre-war era started. But that's beside the point.

Germany has shifted into a T formation too. Reports of new troops being moved into Russia indicate the play may go in that direction—the "drang nach osten." Meanwhile, there is a neat bit of deception going on in the Spanish peninsula. Every so often it looks as though Germany's next move is going to be toward Gibraltar.

Meanwhile, of course, the Himmler of the Nazi backfield is poised to do some line plunging across the English channel, but that may be only to keep attention off something else. Or the something else may be to keep attention off the English channel. According to experts, that's the beauty of the T formation.

It has all kinds of possibilities. It used to have them back in the twitty twenties too, but when the possibilities didn't tell it was a mess. That is, perhaps, as good a thought as to keep in mind while Quarterback Hitler is trying to catch the opposition off balance.

FOOTNOTE

What Italians are thinking about right now is anybody's guess; Mussolini won't tell. But those old enough to remember things they were told before Fascists started to do all the telling will wonder why their peninsula has been thrown wide open all of a sudden to the progeny of the same hordes from the north that traditionally have been possessed with the notion it was their special stamping ground.

Attila the Hun started it about 450 A. D. Fellows named Alaric, Odo and Frederick carried on the fine old custom. Always, the invaders were fought fiercely, but rarely successfully. It was not till Benito, however, that the invaders were invited to come in on passports, room and board provided, the first time in their history that the guardians of the Italian peninsula ever found a foreign power moving in on them by consent.

Certainly the way things stand now, Italy must be listed among Germany's conquests, in the footnotes if not in the big type. And not a shot was fired. Nothing exploded but Mussolini's prestige.

GOOD FOR THE MAJOR

Major John L. Griffith, secretary of the National Collegiate Athletic association, is not one of those whose hobby is to tackle the national goodness-what-a-mess-we-are complex. American colleges, he points out, have been doing a first-rate job of developing physical specimens. This country hasn't any reason to feel ashamed of its young men.

The major doesn't say so, but if the United States were to handpick its best physical specimens, line them up in long rows and take pictures of them for a propaganda ministry to scatter where they'd do the most good they'd be a fine looking lot. Not that it proves anything in particular, because the fittest looking soldiers whose retouched photographs ever found their way into the press were Poles. It's just a comfort to know that Major Griffith hasn't joined the howling chorus of Americans who seem to think their country is inferior in bulging muscles or something else because some bird-legged specimen of the tenacity of human life says his boss says so.

A GRRRRREAT STATESMAN

Not because it has any immediate significance, but might turn out to be a puzzle to some historian of the future, something should be said in 1941 about the statue of the late Huey P. Long that has been placed in the statuary hall of the United States capitol.

What needs to be said is that when the statue was new it seemed odd that the big boss of one of the most corrupt organizations that ever seized a state by the throat should be memorialized in a place supposedly set aside for statesmen. It was explained at the time, however by Washington observers that each state has the right to honor one man and this was done when the Long heirs still were in the saddle in Louisiana. In death, as in life, with a few notable exceptions, the kingfish couldn't lose.

In the future—when the statue has been unveiled—visiting school children can nudge their teachers and say, "Please, Miss Fitt, if I study hard and brush my teeth can I grow up to be a grrrrreat statesman like H-u-e-y L-o-n-g?" It's to be hoped Fittsey will have an answer ready.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, December 29

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE should indicate the precipitation of events of utmost significance on the entire future life and its destinies. It is probable that this occurrence may be the sudden accomplishment of a long-cherished and faithfully worked-for desire or ambition of major importance.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the advent of an event which may prove the turning point of the life and its future security. This matter of major significance, while marking a crisis and coming as a sudden climax, may be the sound and enduring fulfillment of a long-sustained effort or wisely pursued objective. In the happy excitement it would be wise to postpone decisions regarding material change or other innovations until a more poised moment.

A child born on this day may be endowed with exceptional talents, probably of a constructive though spectacular nature. It should possess sterling character.

Monday, December 30

Monday's astrological forecast is a rather conflicting one, with augury of much activity, enterprise and initiative, although such may be carried to extremes by over expansive or ardent zeal, with tendencies to "plunge," gamble, or other excesses or extravagance. The safest prospect is in union with sound corporation, or organizations where restraints and brakes may be strategically employed. Use tact, diplomacy, even healthy intrigues, in all major moves.

Those whose birthday it is may find their most profitable and enduring objectives may be achieved by uniting with organizations or established bodies of tried and true strength. Trickeries lie in other directions, with subtleties active from least suspected sources. Be shrewd, tactful, discreet.

A child born on this day should be versatile, shrewd, creative in advanced or modern lines, expressing through subtle qualities and great warmth of emotional feeling. It may be prodigal, extravagant, indulgent, but ultimately may meet high success.

DOCTORS REGISTERED

COLUMBUS, Dec. 28.—Registration of more than 8,200 medical doctors—about 83 per cent of Ohio's physicians—for possible service under the national defense program, was reported today by the Ohio State Medical association.

Dr. Harry V. Paryzek of Cleveland, chairman of the association's medical preparedness committee, said information volunteered regarding training, special experience, and availability for service with armed forces, in defense industries or on the home front in case of emergency, would be made available to the federal government.

"In this way," Dr. Paryzek added, "it is planned to avert any serious disturbance in the furnishing of medical services to both the civilian and military which might otherwise result from rapid expansion of the medical branches of the army and navy."

Dr. Paryzek said physicians failing to answer questionnaires were probably "aged doctors, those retired from practice, or those incapacitated by illness." He indicated that 100 per cent coverage was expected by early January.

In addition to arranging for individual service as necessary, Dr. Paryzek said the committee planned to prevent the "stripping of medical resources from any Ohio community as a consequence of the defense program."

"It is a fundamental part of modern defense measures to assure civilian populations fully as much health protection as the military," he asserted.

"Gentlemen, I Give You a Toast of Freedom"

A holiday scene from over there. A Dutch army officer in England lifts up his glass, faces his fellow soldiers in uniform and says solemnly, "Gentlemen, I give you the toast of freedom." The Dutch officers and troops are now stationed in the western command.

SCIENCE GAINING ON PNEUMONIA

New Treatments Prove Effective, Says Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

There will be cases of pneumonia this year as in years past, but all indications point to the fact that they need not be regarded with as much dread as previously.

Three great, recently introduced methods of treatment are considered exceptionally powerful weapons.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ons against this age-old infection and have robbed it of much of its dread. They are: Specific serum, sulfanilamide derivative, drugs, and the scientific use of oxygen.

Serum

The use of serum in pneumonia was, for long years, a dream but the successful accomplishment met with many technical obstacles. Most of these obstacles have been overcome. The most important advance was in the recognition that there were many different types of the germ which causes pneumonia. They are all closely related—first cousins, so to speak—but there are some thirty-odd strains and one strain will not succumb to the serum that might be used for another strain. Methods have been developed to determine what strain any given patient has, in a short time, and different serums have been developed applicable to most of the strains and all of the common strains.

Perhaps even more successful than the use of serum, has been the development, almost coincidentally with the use of serum, of the use of the chemical dyes which go under the general name of sulfanilamide derivatives. These are like the magic bullet of Ehrlich—they kill the germ without injuring the tissues of the host.

Sulfanilamide, itself, is effective in pneumonia but apparently not as effective as two closely related compounds, sulfapyridine and sulfathiazole.

Oxygen is used when there is a definite indication that the patient's lungs are so congested that he cannot readily use oxygen from the air. Oxygen should not be used indiscriminately in all pneumonia patients, and it sometimes makes them very uncomfortable.

Just which one of these remedies, or all, to use in a given case requires the best judgment of the attending physician. From the reports of those with wide experience it would seem that the sulfanilamide derivatives are the method of choice. There is no reason why they should not be used in combination with serum. The two remedies play different parts. The sulfanilamide derivatives apparently attack the germ itself, while the serum neutralizes the toxins or by-products produced by the germs.

Care of Patient

The use of the Big Three, however, should not persuade people to neglect the ordinary nursing care of the pneumonia patient. In no disease is complete rest and freedom from annoyance of such importance. Anything that irritates the patient should be stopped, even if it's giving him medicine. He should have plenty of water and fresh air, and no noise or moving about. In fact, old-fashioned nursing is still the leading item for the pneumonia patient's treatment.

The mortality of pneumonia, using modern methods, has dropped from about 40 per cent to about 8 per cent, according to last year's reports. In the severest type (Type III pneumococcus) the drop has been from 60 per cent to 19 per cent. So we are justified in saying, that the disease need not be regarded with as much dread this year.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mr. M. V.:—I take two table-spoonfuls of flax seed in hot water every day for a regulator. I am told that flax seed thins the blood and causes anemia. Is this true?

Answer—No, it has no direct action on the blood and it acts as a bulk cathartic.

G. W.:—"What can be done about a hammer toe that causes a lot of trouble? Is there anything to bring action back to the toe?"

Answer—Hammer toes are held in position by strong adhesions and tendons, and exercises or other methods are not of great benefit. I believe an operation to cut the tendon and remove the deformity of the joint is the only certain method of cure.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SWEETWATER, Tex.—The Fitzgerald brothers think there really is something to aviation. The oldest, Robert, is with the government as a training inspector; the next, two are commercial airline pilots, the fourth is a flying instructor at a Colorado flying school, and the youngest, Jack, 18, is an engineering honor student—studying aeronautical design.

WIKES-BARRE, Pa.—Several local barbers henchforth are going to examine new razor-honing compounds more thoroughly. They discovered that a new compound, for which they paid $1.45 a small box, turned out to be nothing more than ordinary sand.

YOSEMITE BEARS SENT INTO EXILE

Animals Are Redistributed For Protection Of Park Tourists

(By United Press)

YOSEMITE, Calif.—Forty-five members of the banding gang of bears which holds up tourists and raid camp sites in search of tidbits were deported during the 1940 season from Yosemite valley, Lawrence C. Merriam, Yosemite National park superintendent, has revealed.

The bears were trapped, smeared with paint to permit a check of their future movements, and moved to other areas of the park. Most of them were released at Gin Flat near the new Tioga road.

Redistribution of the bears in the park was ordered to protect park visitors from injury and to restore better, more natural conditions for the bears themselves, Merriam said.

The bear population in Yosemite valley has increased gradually until recently as many as 40 have been counted in one area. This abnormal bear population, Merriam said, is largely the result of easily obtained food from campers' supplies, garbage cans and handouts. The National Park service instituted a bear feeding program at the lower end of the Valley to protect campers and lodge guests in the upper valley from depredations of the animals.

Visitors persisted in ignoring warnings against feeding bears along park roadsides. As many as 60 persons required hospital attention in one season for gashes suffered from the claws of careless bears, Merriam said.

The bear feeding program at the Yosemite valley pits will be discontinued. Artificial feeding above the rim of the valley is contemplated to induce the bears to return to more natural habits of feeding on grasses, wild berries and nuts, Merriam said.

Of the bears trapped during the past season, 26 were females and 19 were males. Their weights ranged from 95 pounds to 660 pounds. The trap is constructed of a section of corrugated iron, and mounted on automobile wheels.

Services In Our Churches

"Life's Highways" Baptist Subject

Pope said, "Years following years steal something every day. At last they steal us from ourselves away." As we approach the close of the old year it is appropriate that we pause to think seriously about the inevitable end of the human span of life and with this thought in mind, Rev. Magann will preach Sunday morning on the subject, "At The End of Life's Highway."

We will soon come to the unknown paths of the New Year and in an honest effort to make the way a pleasant and profitable one we should seek the daily fellowship of hope, one of man's best traveling companions. In keeping with this thought, Rev. Magann will preach Sunday evening on the subject, "Hoping In The Dark."

Announcements follow:
9:45 a. m. Sunday school. Elwood Hameel, superintendent.
10:45 a. m. Morning worship. Sermon, "At The End of Life's Highway."
6:30 p. m. Young people's meeting. All young people are invited.
7:30 p. m. Evening service. Sermon, "Hoping In The Dark."
Monday, 7 p. m. Boy scouts will meet; 7:30, Girl scouts meet.
Tuesday, 9:30 to 12 p. m. Watch-night party with candlelight devotional service at midnight for members and friends of the church.
Thursday, 7:30 p. m. Choir rehearsal.

Week's Program Given For Nazarene Church

"Dangers We Face" is the subject for the morning worship service at the Nazarene church Sunday.
"Resting in God" is subject for the evening evangelistic service.
The young people of the church will hold their regular evangelistic service at the Mahoning County Home Tuesday, 7:30 p. m.

"Walking by Fate" Is Rec. Keister's Topic For Trinity Service

Rev. George D. Keister has chosen the subject, "Walking by Fate," for the Sunday morning service of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church.
Announcements follow:
Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.
The matter of faithfulness is not a trivial one. It is of special importance in the field of religion. Inconstancy is one attitude which Jesus warned against with all of his strength. As preparations are made for the New Year, it is most urgent that we must be spiritually fit for life and must seek to keep ourselves in that condition if we are to meet the real demands that will come. Faithfulness in the worship of God, faithfulness in the practical application of the Gospel, faithfulness in keeping the Golden Rule, faithfulness to the moral principles of the Christian faith, these demands are all made of the sincere Christian.
Morning worship at 11. Sermon. The future is really a great unknown. Seers and crystal-gazers are very careful that their predictions are not too definite. They speak in so general terms that different interpretations may be possible. Then they cannot be too far wrong. It is in the perfect wisdom of God, that the future is hidden in secrecy. If we knew the path of tomorrow, the dark and dreaded experience would hover over us like a cloud before it arrived. If the future were an open book, then the happiness and joy that will surely come, would lose much of their charm and sweetness. The days of 1940 have been tinged with gloominess and pessimism. No matter what 1941 may bring, every Christian must walk with head uplifted and with eyes turned to the eternal sunrise. For we are sustained by faith in God.
"Another year is dawning! Dear Master let it be On earth, or else in heaven, Another year for Thee." Luther League, 6:30. Devotional topic, "The New Year." Leader, Robert Cibula.
Annual meeting of the congregation will be held on Monday, Dec. 30th at 7:30. Reports of organizations and officers. Elections.
Jessie Thomas circle meets Tuesday evening.
Dorcas society meets Thursday, 2:30 p. m.
Preaching services at the Washingtonville Lutheran church, Sunday evening at 7:30. Installation of newly elected church councilmen, and officers and teachers of the Sunday school.

New Year's Day
Divine worship service will be held on Wednesday, New Year's day at 10 a. m. The sermon topic is "Jewels from Jesus." Only as we begin the New Year in Jesus' Name will it be what we wish it for ourselves and others, a Happy New Year. Come and be with him as you go into the New Year.
German service at 11 a. m.
A Happy New Year
Within a few days another period of our life will draw to its close. The year 1940 is rapidly fading into history. It has been in many respects a distressing and turbulent year. It has clearly emphasized the uncertainties and the tragedies of life. It has been fraught with the most significant happenings among the nations of the earth. The year has seen a new "World war" catastrophe that is threatening to wipe out the last vestiges of modern civilization. The year has brought distress and sorrow and despair into countless human homes and hearts.
But now the old and exciting year of 1940 is passing away, and a new year is about to dawn. We are naturally anxious regarding the things that it may have in store for us. No doubt it is well that the Lord does not place into our hands a detailed chart of coming events but simply demands we go forward into the uncertainties of the future with an unwavering faith in His grace and providence, trusting to His promise that "All things work together for good to them that love God." Whatever institutions of man will pass away in the year that is about to dawn, whatever startling changes the new year of time will have in store for the children of men, there is one thing that is unchangeably stable and that is bound to weather all the storms of time and all the violent upheavals in human life, and that is the grace of God assured to us in His Holy Word. Whatever may happen, we are enabled under the cross of Christ to wish one another a happy New Year.

Christian Science Program for Sunday

"Christian Science," is the subject of the lesson sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science Society tomorrow. The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WOIE (610 Kil) Cleveland on the first and third Sundays of each month at 11 a. m.
Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years is held at 9:30 a. m. The mid-week service will be held the first Wednesday of each month at the church at 8 p. m.
The Golden Text is: "The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened" (Matthew 13:33).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of me, saith the Lord" (Isaiah 54:17).
The lesson sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In the year 1866, I discovered the Christ Science or divine laws of Life, Truth, and Love, and named my discovery Christian Science. God had been graciously preparing me during many years for the reception of this final revelation of the absolute divine principle of scientific mental healing" (p. 107).
This society maintains a reading room at 136 So. Broadway where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read or borrowed. It is open from 1:30 to 4 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and from 7 to 9 p. m. on Saturday.
A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the services and visit the reading room.

DRIVING COURTESY
At night the courteous driver realizes that hazards increase tremendously, and he performs several acts which not only react toward the convenience of others, but help to protect himself. He keeps his own headlights properly adjusted and glare-free, and he dims or lowers his driving beams so as not to blind the oncoming driver. He reduces speed and does not overdrive his headlights; and he intensifies his daytime observation of other courtesies such as making careful his signals are visible, and being especially careful about pedestrians who are apt to be blinded by his lights, or unable to judge his speed on account of darkness.

Today's Pattern

SLIM PANELLED COTTON
FROCK
Pattern 4631

A word to the wives is sufficient—with a dress like Pattern 4631 to back it up! For every family likes "Mother" to look her cheery best at all times—from across the breakfast table in the morning to across the sewing table in the evening—and here's the style to do it! This Anne Adams dress seems to add slim height and subtract from your width, with its front bodice panels that meet the skirt panel to create long, flowing lines. Curving yokes look decorative and are useful for holding-in the gathered fullness of the side bodice sections. You might make them in contrast with matching tabs on the sleeves; and an edging of ruffling or ric-rac would be gay and feminine. Order this becoming style today—you'll receive your pattern by return mail!

Pattern 4631 is available in misses' and women's sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Are you too tall? Too short? Too plump? Too slim? If you are irregularly proportioned in any way, let the ANNE ADAMS PERFECT FOUNDATION PATTERN 4114 take the guess-work out of dressmaking. This "basic" figure pattern is fitted and adjusted to your exact measurements in tissue; then cut out in muslin for a permanent record. Pin your dress patterns to it, make the necessary changes, and the finished frock will fit with perfection. Designed for sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 50. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c.

WHEN THE Christmas tree is trimmed and the mistletoe hangs high, that's the time to leap into a frock as festive as the season, and look your loveliest.

For the girl who goes places and does things, the Christmas season calls for a succession of gay and glittering new evening gowns, to do honor to the myriad holiday parties that crowd her date calendar.

It's a brilliant, exciting climax to a year marked by after-dark elegance—and clothes live up to the spirit of the times.

For the school crowd home for the holidays there are diaphanous frocks of cloudy chiffon, star-spangled with sequins. For more mature beauties there are sleek, sophisticated gowns as streamlined as tomorrow. For everybody there is flattery in the new formal mode.

"TRIAL WITHOUT JURY"

By JAMES RONALD

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Inspector Burrows left the room. A few minutes later he returned on the heels of Mrs. Edith Osborne. He looked sheepishly at the Sheriff. Edith shivered slightly as she passed the covered chair but when she faced Black she was quite composed, although very pale. Her hands were clenched at her sides as though with a very real physical effort she was trying to keep a grip of herself.

"I'm afraid I can't allow you to question my younger children to-night. This affair has been a terrible shock to their nerves and I've sent them to bed."

"I've told you already," snapped the police inspector, "it's no good taking that stand with us. We're investigating a murder and—"

"Let it go, Burrows," said the Sheriff quietly. "I see your point, Mrs. Osborne. We'll talk to the younger children tomorrow, when they've had a good night's rest. Face it down."

Edith seated herself. She looked out of the window with tired, haggard eyes, beginning to realize what the murder of Octavia was likely to mean to her family. Her lips trembled as she thought of what might lie before them in consequence of it.

"We'll have to take your fingerprints," said Sheriff Black quite gently. "And we'll need those of Peter and Marjory as well. Sergeant Feathers will go with you and take them. Tell me, Mrs. Osborne, where did you spend the period between lunch and the discovery of the murder?"

"Shortly after lunch I went into the garden to look for my husband. Failing to find him—at this Black and Burrows exchanged glances—"I concluded he must have wandered into the fields beyond, a thing he often did when he was perplexed or worried, and I returned to the house and went to my room. I had a splitting headache, so I lay down for a while and didn't rise until I heard Miss Adams screaming."

"Did anyone enter your room while you were lying down?"

"No one. I have no one to prove my alibi, Mr. Black, if that is what you mean."

"Mine is an unpleasant job at times, Mrs. Osborne. I have to ask questions whether I like it or not."

"I know, Sheriff. I'm sorry if I spoke sharply."

"I think that's all for the present. Sergeant Feathers will go with you to take the children's fingerprints."

After Mrs. Osborne and the Sergeant had left, Inspector Burrows clenched his fist and growled: "The way these people act makes me wonder who are the police—us, or them. They'll have me thinking in a minute that I'm the guy who did it!"

"They're nice people," replied Sheriff Black. "It makes me feel like a heel to put them through a cross-examination."

"What about the girl who owns the scarf—Dorothy Osborne?"

"O. K., I'll call her—if she hasn't drunk her hot milk and gone to bed."

The way Dorothy reacted to the shrouded corpse was almost sufficient to console Burrows for the calm pose of her sister. She threw one frightened glance at it and darted across the room to the chair by the window. Sheriff Black looked at her appreciatively. She was quite the most beautiful girl he had ever seen so close range. Surely this lovely creature could not be implicated in anything so sordid as a murder.

Sergeant Feathers, who had returned to the living-room, was so gazing pensively at Dorothy; but Burrows maintained a stony exterior. Even the loveliest woman was just another female to him. Burrows turned a jaundiced eye on such allurement.

"Don't be frightened," said Black with his friendliest smile. "I only want to ask some questions."

Inspector Burrows had the silk scarf in his hand. He held it under Dorothy's eyes.

"Perhaps you can tell us about this."

Dorothy gasped and shut her eyes. She waited. For a moment she almost fainted but with a visible effort she regained control of herself.

"It's mine," she whispered hoarsely.

"We know that. What we want to know is how it came to be about your aunt's neck when she was found dead—and who put it there!"

Terrified, the girl stared at Burrows.

"All right, Inspector," growled

Sheriff Black. "I'll handle this."

"Sure, sure," said Burrows. "Go ahead." Women, he thought. Bah! Give 'em locks and they had most men falling over themselves to be nice to 'em.

"Did you wear this scarf today, Miss Osborne?" asked the Sheriff, in a kindly tone.

"Yes," shuddered Dorothy. "I wore it this afternoon when I went out after lunch."

"Where did you go?"

"I went over to the Flemings—they live not from here—to play tennis. But I—I didn't feel like tennis, so I came home in half-an-hour or so."

"Did you enter this room?"

"No. Or rather, I almost did. I was about to come in through the French windows—it's quicker than using the front door—but I saw the top of aunt Octavia's head over the back of her chair and changed my mind. I went round to the front and up to my room."

"Taking the scarf with you?"

"Oh, no. I am not sure what I did with the scarf—I think I must have dropped it, perhaps in the hall. I didn't have it when I reached my room."

"You are sure of that?"

"Quite sure. I have a habit of dropping things about the house. This afternoon was warm and I wasn't wearing it; I was carrying it over my arm."

"How long did you stay in your room?"

"Until I heard the scream. I lay on my bed for a while"—sobbing bitterly, she might have added, for the scene at lunch had shaken her badly—"and must have dropped off to sleep."

"I see; then there is little you can tell us. If you don't mind, Sergeant Feathers will take your fingerprints."

"You don't think I—"

"Oh, dear, no. There's nothing to worry about in having your fingerprints taken. It's purely routine."

Sergeant Feathers stepped forward with alacrity. The eyes of Inspector Burrows were hard and bitter as he watched his stalwart subordinate gently, almost caressingly, imprinting Dorothy's fingers in the white card. He noted grimly that the process took considerably longer than usual.

"The mother, the daughter, the dead woman's maid!" he exclaimed, when Dorothy had gone. "All in their rooms, all feeling faint. What is this? A sanatorium?"

Michael Osborne was next to be questioned. The Sheriff took a liking to him at once. Young, dark, slender and very much alive. "Mike" was exactly the sort of boy the Sheriff would have wanted for a son. That was the trouble: all these people were so confoundably likeable.

"You'll hardly need that," said Michael, when Sergeant Feathers approached with the inked pad. He displayed his hands ruefully. They had obviously been washed but were still pretty black. "I never seem to get them very clean."

"Perhaps you can explain this,"

beginning Sheriff Black, spreading out the oil-stained silk scarf.

Michael surveyed the black smears and frowned, wrinkling his nose.

"Fraid I can't. Looks like oil."

"Is it. And how would oil get on it?"

"Search me. 'Oh—the boy reddened—I wonder if I—I— You know I have a bad habit of wiping my oily hands on the first thing I come across. I was working on my car this afternoon—"

"That may be it. Can you remember coming across this scarf?"

"No. I'm afraid I can't."

"Think hard."

Michael thought hard. He shook his head.

"I can't remember."

"Did you come into the house this afternoon?"

"Yes, once. I came for something I'd left in my room."

"Through the French windows of this room?"

Michael stared. "Heck, no. Aunt Octavia was in here. Through the kitchen."

"And through the hall?"

"Yes."

"The scarf may have been lying in the hall. Try to remember whether you saw it there."

Again Michael wrinkled his nose. "Fraid I can't."

"You keep your car in a shed at the side of the house? While you were working there, did anyone pass?"

"Yes, Dad did. He was going to the garden."

"Did you see him coming back?"

"No I didn't."

"Did you see anyone else?"

"I don't think so. Wait a minute, I saw Ted Fleming. He spoke to me and went on out to the garden."

"Who is he?"

"Oh, Ted's an old friend of the family. He's keen on Dorothy. Michael was suddenly conscious of the scratching of Sergeant Feathers' pencil. "Gosh!" he gasped. "Don't take down that last remark!"

Sheriff Black smiled faintly. "And why was he going to the garden?"

"I didn't ask. He's always been welcome to come and go as he pleases. Ted's all right."

Abe boy glanced over his shoulder at the married chair with its gruesome occupant.

"Say, was it really murder?"

"Definitely."

"Good Lord! I wonder who could have—"

"That," said Sheriff Black grimly, "is what we are trying to find out."

"You don't think one of—" Michael's eyes widened indignantly. "Oh, you can't!"

"We're trying to get at the facts," Sheriff Black patted the lad's shoulder. "Run along, boy, and don't think about it."

"That's easy to say," replied Michael, as he left the room.

A captured Italian tank is towed to rest beside another tank captured by the British in their counter-offensive against the Mussolini legions in Egypt. Two Italian divisions and thousands of Fascist blackshirt militiamen have been bottled up at Bardia, ten miles inside the Libyan coast, according to London reports.

British Get Traditional Pudding

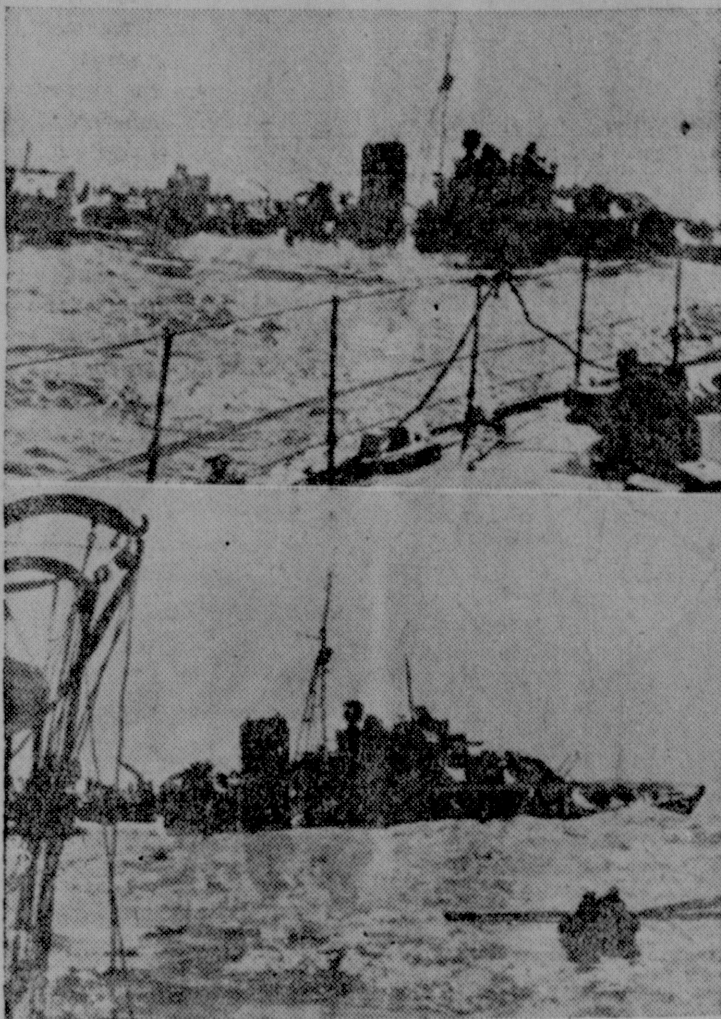

Despite war's gloom the men of Britain's armed forces celebrated Christmas with the traditional English plum pudding. The photo above shows convalescing soldiers and sailors in a converted mansion in western England as they were served the pudding for their Yuletide feast.

New French Powers

Fernand de Brinon
Fernand de Brinon, established in Paris by Pierre Laval as "ambassador of France," has been given new powers, according to a report from Vichy. De Brinon's post was set up for purposes of collaboration with the conqueror.

British Rescue Crew of Destroyer

Rescue of the crew of H. M. S. Kelly, which was torpedoed off the German coast, is shown in these photographs taken from the deck of a British warship. Top picture shows the crew gathered along the Kelly's port rail, and the lower photo shows them being rowed from the severely damaged ship. Although Berlin declared the Kelly sank, British sources claimed it was towed across the North sea and docked for repairs.

This Was a Hospital Once

Rescue workers search through the ruins of a northwest England hospital, blasted to earth by the Nazi air raiders. The British caption fails to reveal if any of the hospital's inmates were killed.

F. D. R. Elected!

Col. Edwin Halsey
Senate Secretary Col. Edwin Halsey is shown with the electoral votes sent to Washington, disclosing that President Roosevelt has been elected president for a third term. The votes will be kept until the new congress convenes and then opened and read before a joint session. Then congress will inform the president officially of his election.

Willkie Egger Fined

Charles Mulrain (hat to face) is fined $20 for assault and battery and $5 for disorderly conduct in Chicago court for throwing an egg at Wendell L. Willkie. Mulrain, 53, scored a direct hit on the G.O.P. candidate when he appeared in Chicago during the presidential campaign. Mulrain lost his job as a result of the incident.

Salem High Cagers Score Surprise Victory Over Ex-Highs

Brown Five Matches Shot For Shot With Graduates To Hang Up 36-31 Triumph

"Buck" Ritchie and George Baillie Lead Red and Black Scoring; Quaker Reserves Eke Out 29 to 28 Victory Over Augusta Varsity

The unpredictable Salem High cagers came into their own last night as they scored a surprise 36 to 31 victory over the powerful Alumni squad in a fast, hot battle at the Quaker gym. For the first time this year Coach Herbert Brown's passers displayed the brand of ball that they are capable of playing.

The High school lads looked like a completely different team as they matched shot for shot with the classy Ex-Highs. The Red and Black cagers displayed a surprising amount of aggressiveness both on offense and defense.

The victory was not an easy one for the school lads, however. The Alumni crew made things pretty hot during most of the contest. Had it not been for a let-down in the third period, the "old-men" might have come out on top. But as it was, the Salem varsity really had to produce the goods to keep pace with the former Quaker stars.

Ritchie, Baillie Lead Scoring
"Buck" Ritchie and George Baillie were the big guns for the varsity outfit, with 19 and nine points, respectively. The Alumni scoring was pretty well divided with Bill Schaeffer heading the list with six markers. Diminutive Ray McGaffie was the defensive star of the contest, holding different former school stars to one and two field goals and also breaking up some of the clever offensive attacks of the Ex-Highs.

Little time was wasted in getting the evening's festivities under way. The two teams practically took turns in marking up points, with the first quarter ending 11-11. Both sides showed uncanny accuracy on their shots in this fast initial period. Goals were thrown from every position on the floor with the bigger percentage of the two-pointers not even touching the rim of the basket.

The second stanza saw the Alumni crew gain a slight edge as they outscored the Quakers 12 points to 8, ending the half with a 23-19 lead.

It appeared at this stage of the game as though the former stars were gathering momentum to turn the fracas into a complete rout.

But as the third quarter got under way, things began to happen. The High school hardwoodmen went wild as they outgrew their opponents and started to sink shots on the dead run. When the third period smoke had cleared away, the Red and Black passers were holding a 32-25 lead.

Ex-Highs Rally

The Ex-Highs rallied somewhat in the slow final quarter but Ritchie's two long shots were enough to give the High school cagers a 36-31 triumph.

The Salem Reserves preserved their undefeated record as they gained a 29 to 27 win over the Augusta High school varsity in a hectic battle. The contest was a "thriller-diller" all the way.

Larry Frost was the big hero of the fracas as the lanky sophomore picked up the bounding ball with three seconds left to play, and his team trailing 26-27, to toss a one-handed shot from the side of the floor for the winning points.

Bob Ruffing and "Tut" Guappone greatly aided the cause with seven and six points, respectively. Leatherberry and Temple were the Augusta stars, the former bagging 13 markers and the latter 11.

The halftime score was 14-12 in Salem's favor, and the third period ended 20-20.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Seen and heard: Baron Von Cramm, the tennis star, is out of Hitler's doghouse and is on a good will tour through Spain. Heinrich Henkel, another crack German player, is dittoing in Japan. First arrival for the football coaches' meeting next week was "Moon" Mullins, the old Notre Dame, who had himself a whale of a season at St. Ambrose college out in Iowa. His team was unbeaten and unscored on and wasn't tied until the schedule's finale. George Franck, Minnesota's All-American back and his girl friend are having a hard time making people believe they didn't slip away recently and get themselves hitched.

Today's Guest Star
Maurice O'Sheville, St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "Francis Schmidt's swan song at Ohio State started with too much harmonizing."

Hither and Yon
Just leave it to those whites to do the chucking—Ernie led the American association pitchers and Hal was tops in the International.

Don Budge is tuning up for his pro tour with La Marle, et cetera, by practicing with Frankie Kovacs on the coast. Carl Snavely recently was invited to a big Pittsburgh sports function as the guest of Referee Red (fifth down) Friesell.

Bowl Selections
We think Nebraska's football host will upset Stanford on the coast; That mighty Tennessee will roll to victory in the Sugar bowl.

The Texas Aggies surely should take Fordham's Rams—and take 'em good.

While in the Orange Bowl, fickle fate will smile on Mississippi State. To Sun bowl fans, this tip we voice: Just pay your dough and take your choice.

They're The Tops
Louisiana is very proud that the two biggest "days" in the majors last season were testimonials to two native sons—Mel Ott and Ted Lyons. Well, it couldn't have happened to two sweller guys, could it?

Madison Square Garden, which is having trouble lining up talent for its "honest wrestling" shows, is being advised to scout the coltish talent of J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of "The Sporting News", is ringing the bell for mid-western fans with his weekly baseball chatter via air.

Names Is Names
Charley Fleming, son of the veteran trotting horse driver, shortly will hang out his shingle as a public trainer of trotters and pacers at Syracuse.

Along comes Ray Nohlecek of Milwaukee with the suggestion it be called the charley horse stable.

North-South Grid Teams Will Clash

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 28.—Two star-studded squads, the pick of the nation's non-bowl contending colleges, squared away today in the third annual game of Montgomery's North-South football series.

A little hoecus-pocus from North Carolina, some drive from Tulane and Duke, and dynamite from Auburn were Coach Ray Wolf's prescription for the south in a bid for a second successive victory over the Yankees.

For his backfield the North Carolina coach called up his own triple-threat ace, Jim Lalanne, a halfback Harry Hays of Tulane and dynamite Dick McGowan of Auburn, and Duke's plugging fullback, Jap Davis. Teaming with this scoring screw, he designated All-America Paul Severin of North Carolina and Jim Darnell of Duke at ends.

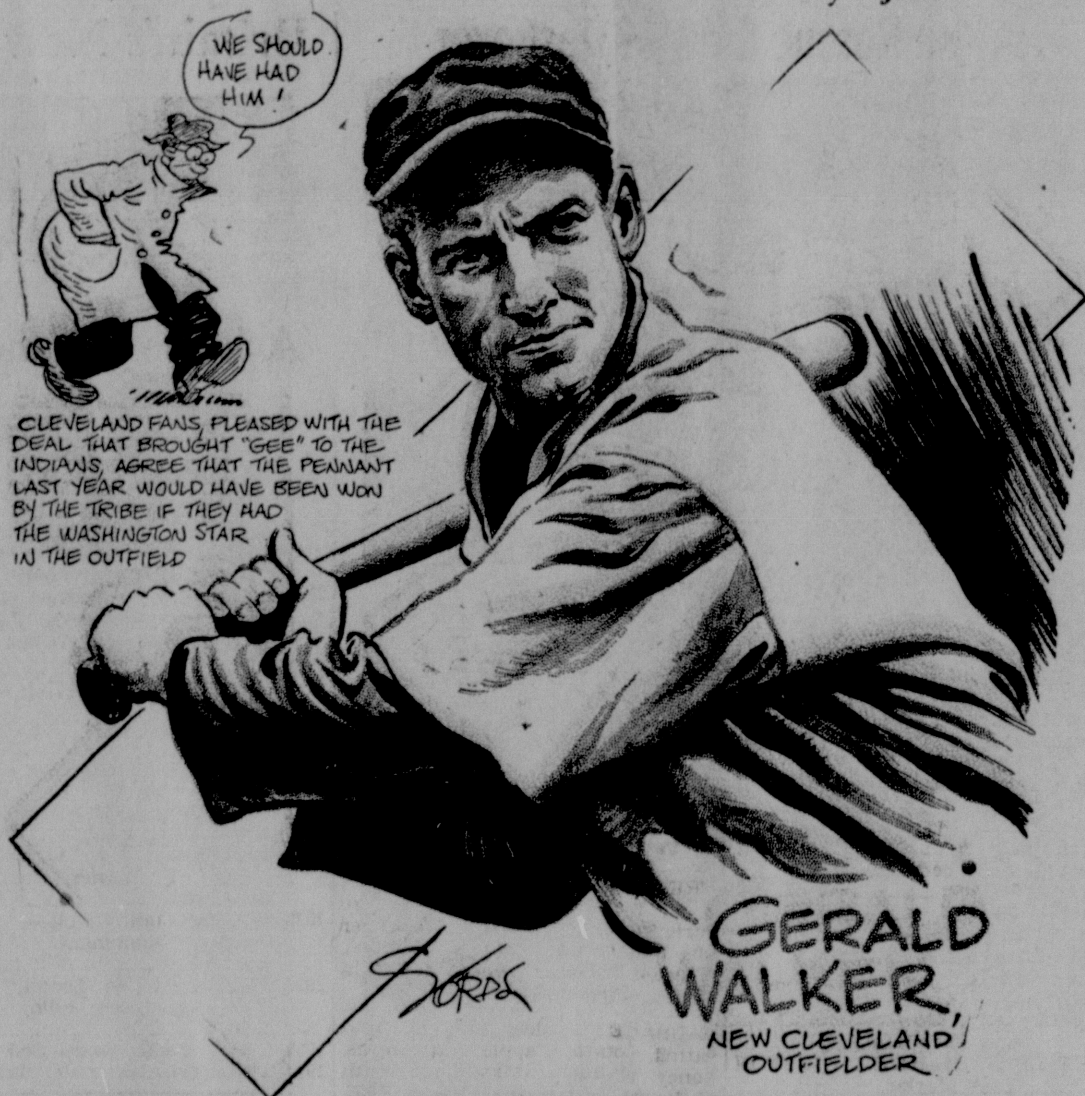

Coaches Lynn Waldorf of North-western and Carl Snavely of Cornell, co-coaches of the Yankee contingent, matched Lalanne with fleet Nick Barea of Villanova; evened the line-plugging power with Joe Hoague of Colgate and Bill Murphy of Cornell, and rounded out the North's backfield with Cornell's clocking back, Walt Matuzedzak; Al Kelley of Cornell and Ed Rucinski of Indiana were selected as starting ends.

HELP FOR TRIBE

By Jack Sords

BOWLING RESULTS

Meissner's Service stretched their first place lead to two games in the Federal league as they took two out of three from the second Sanitary Foremen at the Masonic alleys last night.

Brownies climbed to within a game of second place, trouncing the K. of C. team all three games. The O. E. Dodgers swept three from the P. O. Eagles while the National Brass took two from the Sanitary Shippers.

The Ford V-8's added another game to their first place lead in the Grate Ladies' league last night as they gained a two-out-of-three victory over Kaufman's while the second-place Polkys's were losing two to Brownies.

The Eagles took two from Finney's while the Damascus Lumber gained the same verdict over the A. A. The Trades Class five got a two out of three win from the Church Budget, and Endre-Gross trimmed the Salem Cab three straight games.

ATHLETIC HEADS TO LAUNCH ANNUAL SESSIONS SUNDAY

Three Solid Days of Meetings Will Be Devoted To Program

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Three floors of one of this city's largest hotels have been swept out and made ready for the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic association and various allied bodies beginning tomorrow.

They began arriving last night—football coaches, track coaches and teachers of gymnastics; basketball mentors, athletic directors and even several presidents of universities, who will participate in the oratory attending three solid days of meetings.

N. C. A. A. Starts Program
The convention program calls for the N. C. A. A. council meeting tomorrow night to start the ball rolling. The N. C. A. A. holds its annual joint meeting with the Football Coaches association on Monday, a which Dr. William M. Lewis, president of Lafayette college; W. B. Owen, president of the N. C. A. A., and Bo McMillin, president of the football coaches, will talk.

On Tuesday the N. C. A. A. will hold its general meeting, starting in the morning and continuing probably until 1941. Meantime the track coaches will confer on Sunday and Monday and the physical education associations on Monday. The football coaches will devote the whole three days to the formulation of constructive legislation, no doubt.

There has been no advance warnings of any particularly touchy matters coming before the N. C. A. A. delegates, and it looks like a peaceful meeting. A prominent topic of discussion naturally will be the effect of the war and the draft on the nation's amateur athletics, and the attitude the association plans to take toward the proposed Pan-American games or any substitute for the abandoned Olympic games.

Satisfied With Rules
The football coaches appear to be fairly satisfied with the rules as they stand, although there is bound to be some agitation to move the goal posts back on the goal line.

A half-dozen athletic directors will take advantage of the opportunity to shop around for new football coaches, with L. W. St. John of Ohio State having the juiciest job to hand

WOULD YOU LIKE TO BUILD YOUR OWN HOME?

Probably never before in the history of modern times has it been so easy for the man with a moderate income to build a new home. Today, it is possible to secure financial assistance to such an extent that many persons, without realizing it, are in a position to build new homes of the type they have always wanted. If you own a lot in a good neighborhood and have steady, gainful employment, it is within your ability to borrow all the money you require for the construction of a good home at moderate cost. Here are some choice lot values priced for ready sale:

Large lot on Jennings Ave., in splendid location. Has good homes around it, plenty of shade. Street assessments all paid. A real bargain at only $800.

Another large lot on W. Ninth St., ideally located for a cozy bungalow. An unusual value at only $200.

Fine building tract of one acre located on Damascus Road, about three miles from Salem. This is one of the best suburban locations available around Salem. Worth your consideration at only $950.

Several attractive lots on Jennings Ave in an area of new homes. Will sell any frontage desired from 60 feet on up. Priced at $16 per front foot.

Child Star Sued

Gloria Jean

Charging breach of contract, Theatrical Agent William Lustig has filed a suit for $525,000 against Gloria Jean, 12-year-old film player, and her parents. Lustig contended in his New York action that he was to act as the child's personal representative in return for 10 per cent of her gross earnings. Lustig said he was receiving none of her compensation.

Trees, Garden Thrive Beside Desert Cactus

SIERRA BLANCA, Tex.—D. Ortega has learned a horticultural secret sought by many tree lovers. The Sierra Blanca man has raised cottonwood trees alongside cactus of the West Texas desert, a feat never before performed in this arid region.
He flooded a small irrigated area near Sierra Blanca with rain water that he dammed through a series of contour listings and tanks. The trees grow in the water-filled tanks. Ortega also has squash, beans and chili peppers growing alongside mesquite and cactus.

Petition Denied

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 28. — A petition of the Nickel Plate railroad for authority to discontinue two combination freight and passenger trains between Frankfort, Ind., and Toledo, O., was denied by the Indiana public service commission. The PSC order held the railroad had failed to show an operating loss and also failed to prove the abandonment would not deprive the communities of public convenience and necessity.

Holiday season for five-year-old George Bowman, Jr., of Brockton, Mass., and his parents was a happy one this year for George was home for the first time after 31 skin-grafting operations during his 14 months in the hospital. The child, shown with his sister, Betty Jane Bowman, was severely burned on the legs when his clothes caught fire as he watched a pile of burning leaves.

Forecast U.S. Debt Limit At 75 Billion; Plan War Stamps

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The treasury came close to exhausting its legal borrowing power in 1940 in financial operations highlighted by the first issue of wholly taxable securities in government history.

Borrowing operations for the year, which brought in $1,100,000,000 in new money, and expenditures sent the national debt to approximately $44,200,000,000, or $800,000,000 from the legal limit for non-defense expenditures. An additional margin of $4,000,000,000, however, was provided in June for defense financing by congress.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., announced a December financing of $500,000,000 in wholly taxable three-fourths per cent five-year notes. The issue was unprecedented in that the proceeds of the offering were specifically earmarked for national defense.

Future Issues Seen

Further issues of such securities were forecast as Morgenthau announced he would ask congress for authority to issue wholly taxable bonds as well as notes. He explained that he desired to "contribute to national unity" by requiring government investors to pay their share of the national defense through taxes on their bonds.

He indicated a drive would be launched similar to the "Liberty loan" drives of the World War in which the government would seek to sell bonds in small denominations to finance the rearmament program. Present law forbids the
